A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE GRAVEYARDS OF DUBUQUE, DUBUQUE COUNTY, IOWA

The material for this book had its beginnings in January 1987 with the "rediscovery" of the monthly reports which the then City Sexton made to the City Council from June 1855 through September 1875. These documents attested to the death and burial of over 2,600 citizens of the city a quarter of a century before the state began to keep vital statistic records. There was, however, a dearth of information published about death, burial and graveyards. Checking into the history of any graveyard is not the liveliest of subjects. But it was necessary to do some digging into the history of Dubuque graveyards, in order to get the facts and the proper prospective on the sexton's reports. At first, it was thought that these records might be old enough to pertain to the original graveyard, known today as Jackson Park. The search for information included: the Document Files of the City Council, Center for Dubuque History, Wahlert Memorial Library, Loras College, Dubuque; the bound volumes of the Minutes of the City Council, Government Documents Room, Carnegie-Stout Library, Dubuque; the office of the Linwood Cemetery Association, Dubuque; the Archives of the Dubuque County Historical Society, Dubuque; and the office of the County Recorder, Dubuque County Courthouse, Dubuque.

And now that all of this information had been gathered, a resume or synopsis just had to be included. However interested the reader may be in going directly to the indexes of burials and lot owners, bear in mind that this history might just help to establish whether or not the name of your ancestor would be in this book after all.

SOME IMPORTANT DATES

- 1832 - Chief Black Hawk surrendered the "Mines of Dubuque".
- 1833 - Iowa, then a part of the unorganized territory of the United States, was opened on 1 June for legal settlement. The original City Graveyard was laid out north of the main settlement, at the foot of the bluffs, in the summer of 1833, as reported in the History of Dubuque County, published in 1880.

1836 - The area was attached to the Wisconsin Territory. In 1834, it had been attached to the Michigan Territory and the area which would become Iowa was divided into two counties of Dubuque and Demoine.

The Town was surveyed by the U. S. Government and the resulting map of the Town of Dubuque showed three separate plots of ground designated as graveyards. One was Catholic; and the other two, public.

Today, for one reason and another, all three have closed and the remains and the markers removed.

R. CATHOLIC GRAVEYARD

The graveyard was located up on the bluff behind the present day Catholic Cathedral. The map of 1836, "Original Town of Dubuque", located it in the southwest quadrant, namely:

On the north - Third Street

On the east - Out Lot 693

On the south - Out Lots 693A & 698

On the west - Out Lot 723.

No definitive research was made on this cemetery. But it was in use for quite some years before the Catholic Bishop ordered it closed. The remains and the markers were transferred to the Mount Olivet Cemetery at Key West, just south of the city.

At the time of publication, there are no known records of lot purchases or interments. The Dubuque County-Key City Genealogical Society does have a partial listing of some of the grave markers which were printed in a local newspaper.

THE CITY GRAVEYARD AT THE NORTH CITY LIMITS

The map of 1836, "Original Town of Dubuque", showed a public graveyard at the very northern city limits. The minutes of the city council do refer to it from time to time, usually whenever someone wanted to do some mining there. It was never given a formal name. On the map it was located as follows:

On the north - The 1836 north boundary [20th Street].
On the east - Out Lot 677
On the south - Part of Out Lot 674 - the head of Main Street, when extended, and part of Out Lot 673.
On the west - Out Lot 678.

By August of 1852, with the city committed to the opening of a new cemetery at the present day location of Linwood Cemetery on Windsor Avenue, L. H. Langworthy, a wealthy land speculator, offered to give the city ten acres of land adjoining the T. Davis purchase, destined to be the new cemetery, in exchange for a title to the "vacant graveyard on the hill at the north boundary of the city." [Minutes: Vol. 2, Page 268, 16 Aug 1852] By the end of May 1853, the necessary titles and deeds had been processed.

THE CITY GRAVEYARD

The City Graveyard was laid out in the summer of 1833. In 1836, the government survey confirmed the existence and on the map the boundaries were as follows:

On the north - Out Lot 746
On the east - Iowa St., when extended.
On the south - 15th St., as intended.
On the west - Main St., when extended.

From 1837, when the city was incorporated, up to 1853, when this graveyard was closed, the perennial problems were fence repair, invasion by livestock and two sets of boundary lines. Apparently, the survey of 1836 defined the lines of the cemetery to conform with the new plat of the city lots and streets. But the lines set out in 1833 included the right of way of the streets. As a result, burials were made in what would be the right of way of Main St., 15th St., and Iowa Street. Corrective action was taken in October 1852, when Mathias Loras, the Catholic Bishop, complained that the city graveyard encroached upon that parcel of land which he had purchased for the purpose of building a church [St. Patricks]. The graveyard was then surveyed, the proper lines established, and the graves in the right of way were ordered to be removed.

The minutes of the council during this time reflect a series of cholera epidemics which beset the settlement. Once, in 1849, the sexton was warned that should he again refuse to dig a grave for a cholera victim, he would lose his job.

No records of burial were kept; nor were any kept for lot purchases. The minutes reflect when the city had to pay for public burials. In 1844, the sexton was to receive $2.00 for digging the grave and attending the funeral of a person over the age of twelve, and $1.00 for all under the age of twelve. The record is quite explicit about this, so the author is not sure of the charge for a person in his or her twelfth year. In 1852, the charge for a child's grave was raised to $1.50. In the last four years, the graveyard was used, the cost to the city for public burials - those of "strangers" - rose noticeably:

1849 -	$6.00
1850 -	$13.33
1851 -	$59.97
1852 -	$63.42

In May 1853, the city council passed an ordinance formally establishing the new City Cemetery. The old city graveyard was to be emptied and the remains removed to the new cemetery. Those citizens with "friends" buried there were to arrange and pay for exhumations and reburial. The remains of "strangers" would have to be transferred at public expense.

In 1856, the emptied graveyard was dedicated as a public park.

In July 1857, the park was given the name Jackson Park.

No records were made of the transfers as such. The minutes of the council do report the cost of the transfer of "strangers", and from 1854 to 1859, the cost to the city could have accounted for a possible 300 transfers. This is a guess, at best.

Family historians can be sure that when they find burial information or markers at Linwood predating 1853, the remains were transferred from the original graveyard.

THE DUBUQUE CITY CEMETERY 1853 - 1875

The new city cemetery was created by Ordinance passed by the council on 9 May 1853. Ten acres of land in Section 13, Township 89 North, Range 2 East of the Principal Meridian, had been purchased from T. Davis for hospital grounds in 1851. It was decided, however, to use the grounds for a cemetery instead. In May 1853, as mentioned above, the ten acres given by L. H. Langworthy were added. The next addition to the cemetery occurred in 1863, when 20 acres were purchased from Annette Levi & J. B. N. Bourgeoise. At that time the official plat of the new addition was called "Linwood", and from that time the name was applied to the entire cemetery.

With opening of the new cemetery, the sexton was involved not only with the old graveyard downtown, but also with the new one. He was then presenting bills to the council for transfer of remains at public expense during 1853 and 1854. The matter came to a head in April 1855 when he presented the council with a bill for $246.00. Now, that caused quite a stir and a committee was sent out to check the graves, etc. No clear cut conclusions could be made. The sexton would have to be trusted. If he had made any mistakes, or stretched the truth, he certainly had buried the evidence.

But two major changes occurred. First of all, an ordinance was passed in May 1855, requiring the sexton to keep records of all interments; records with the name and age of the deceased, as well as the date of burial and cause of death. He was also to make a monthly report to the council which would be filed with the City Recorder. The ordinance also carried an amendment requiring all graves to be dug to a depth of not less than five feet. [Vol. 3, Page 198, 7 May 1855]

Secondly, in July of 1855, the council appointed Philip Dirrenberger as sexton, replacing Henry Kroll. A year later after a flurry and flood of petitions, charges and countercharges, Henry Kroll was restored to his position. Mr. Dirrenberger did not stand a chance against one Mr. Wiltse, who, apparently had a fair amount of clout. Mr. Wiltse made a formal report to the council that Mr. Dirrenberger was digging the graves, having the length north and south instead of east and west. And he had justified the practice by saying, "Vel dis ground is made wronged - der ish mor lan dis way dan der ish dat way." [Petition of 25 April 1856; Document Files of the City Council] Mr. Wiltse went on with his report: "In Potter's Field he had buried without reference to order and has crammed just as many graves into a given space as the ground was capable of containing." And finally, "there have been frequent complaints of his having depredated upon [stolen] the trees standing upon private lots." The gist was that Mr. D. was taking trees for his own private and personal use.

Needless to say, Mr. Dirrenberger had dug his own grave, and probably north and south.

The monthly reports of the sexton applied to current deaths and did not list, nor refer to, the removals from the old graveyard.

In October of 1875, by public ballot, the business of the cemetery was handed over to private hands, the Linwood Cemetery Association.

CITY SEXTON'S REPORTS MAY 1855 - SEP 1875

These are primary documents of death and burial in the Dubuque City Cemetery and provide the family historian with information which predates 1880, when the state began to record vital statistics. An ordinance of May 1855 generated the reports, and the minutes of the council note the filing of said reports, usually month by month, until September 1875. This was a period of 244 months. 195 original documents listing over 2,600 entries were found and indexed. The original documents are currently to be found at two different locations. In the table below, those documents at the Center for Dubuque History, Wahlert Memorial Library, Loras College, are bracketed [--]. Those stored at the archives of the Dubuque County Historical Society are the remainder.

bottom of the document is missing, and the four names on it. Therefore, the total number of indexed entries = 2,679.

EXPLANATION OF INDEX LIST

Names: The spellings of the names are intended to agree with how they were found on the original documents. The reader needs to be aware of, and utilize, all of the phonetic variations of the particular name being searched.

Age & Sex: The original documents had a column for "age" and three columns for sex; namely, "Male", "Female", and "Child". In the olden days, as reflected in the prices of movie tickets, haircuts, train tickets & streetcar fares, "children" between the ages of 0 through 11 paid half fare. At the age of twelve, the full adult rate was imposed. It may have reflected that era when the child completed grade schooling and had to enter the work-a-day world of the adult with a 12 to 16 hour factory day at wages of a few cents per hour. This cemetery used the age of twelve to differentiate the cost of digging the grave. Therefore, in those instances when the sexton failed to record the age of the deceased and the entry was marked as male or female, the interpretation was made that the individual was over 12 and was an "adult". Those entries marked "child" indicated that the individual was under age 12, and determination of sex would have to be made relying solely upon the first name.

The abbreviations used are as follows. Upper and lower case were used interchangeably.

D/d - Day

H/h = Hour

M/m = Month

W/w = Week

Y/y = Year

Stillborn = Born Dead

New Born = Born Alive, but died

Buried: In the early years, the sexton listed the date of burial on the monthly report. However, by 1867, he had stopped that practice and the report gave the month only in which the person died and was buried.

Report Of: This column shows that date of that sexton's report wherein the individual's name is to be found.

LOT OWNERS

The records of those individuals who purchased cemetery lots in the Dubuque City Cemetery, 1853 - 1863, and then in the Linwood Cemetery [after the name changed in August 1863 to Linwood] until October 1875, were found in four sources.

The alphabetical listing of those individuals includes name, date of purchase [or petition], the lot number and the reference letter [A], [B], [C] or [D].

Reference [A] County Recorder's Office, Dubuque County Courthouse.
Deed Indexes: Vols 1 - 18; 1836 - 1892. These listings provide the names of the purchaser, the date of purchase, the lot number, and the reference to the Deed Book and page.

Reference [B] "Deeds of Ownership of Cemetery Lots 1854 - 1872", a file folder located under the heading "Cemeteries" at the Center for Dubuque History, Wahlert Memorial Library, Loras College. Those documents provided the name of the purchaser, date of purchase, lot number and location in Section 13, Township 89N, R2E.

Reference [C] Beginning in 1867, the monthly reports of the sexton began to list the names of the individuals who had bought lots, either in the older section of the City Cemetery, or in the newer section called "Linwood". This way, the City Treasurer would be able to know and keep track of the funds to be paid to T. Davis for the land purchased in 1851, or Annette Levi for the land purchased in 1863.

Reference [D] The names in Reference [D] were taken from five petitions generated in 1855 & 1856 during the "war of the sextons". The council minutes refer to the signers as "most of the lot owners". No other documents were found to substantiate said reference. The petitions are in the Document Files of the City Council, Center for Dubuque History, Wahlert Memorial Library, Loras College.

ADDENDUM: CITY DEATH RECORDS

On 19 July 1879, the City of Dubuque began the official recording of deaths in the city. However, in Book 1, the chronological flow stops abruptly, and with the heading of "Old Records", there begins a listing of deaths and burials in the city cemetery [Linwood] from January 1858 through September 1875 (Pages 19 through 77).

A comparison of the burial reports submitted by the city sexton with the entries recorded in the city death register confirmed that the source of information for the register had indeed been the sexton's reports.

There is one important caveat. The sexton's reports are the primary documents of burial from 1855 to 1875. The transfer of information into the city death register did incur certain errors. Whereas the sexton's report would record the burial of "a child of" a certain person; the death register shows the death of the parent, omitting the phrase - "child of". In another instance, the death register, page 74, lines 141 through 153, recorded the deaths as occurring in December 1873; whereas the city sexton listed those burials in his report of December 1874.

It was hoped that the records of the sexton, 49 of which are missing today, might have been available in 1879. And that the burials were recorded in the Death Register. Other than two burials for the month of January 1858 and 14 burials for the month of November 1870, no additional burials were found. The 16 burials are listed below.
